

Welcome to the 2016 AIA Institute Honor Awards for Architecture

For more than 60 years, the Institute Honor Awards program has recognized achievements for a broad range of architectural activity to elevate the general quality of architecture practice, establish a standard of excellence against which all architects can measure performance, and inform the public of the breadth and value of architecture practice.

To bring the Institute Honor Awards programs into closer alignment with the AIA's core values surrounding sustainability, submissions are required to include a narrative describing how sustainable design and building performance strategies have been integrated with the project's broader design goals and include basic sustainability data for energy, community connectivity, water efficiency, and materials.

Eligibility

All architects licensed in the United States are eligible to submit regardless of project size, budget, style, building type, or location. Entries are welcomed and encouraged from both established and new practitioners and designers and from small firms and large. New buildings and renovations/restorations are eligible. You may submit multiple entries.

An entry may be any building or complex of buildings completed since January 1, 2009.

An entry must have been designed by an architect licensed in the United States or in one of its territories at the time of the project's completion. "Completion" is synonymous with "substantial completion" as defined in the standard AIA documents governing construction. The entry is to be submitted by the architect.

The submitting architect may qualify as a member of a design team, whether or not serving as the head of the team. When one architect is not the sole author, all other participants contributing substantially to the design of the project must be given credit as part of the submission, regardless of professional discipline.

For multiple building projects, the architect submitting the project (or portion thereof) shall offer detailed evidence of authorship of each portion of the project.

Judging Criteria

Each entry in the Institute Honor Awards program is judged for the success with which the project has met its individual requirements. Entries are weighed individually, not in competition with each other. Projects must exhibit:

Projects should reflect a strong sense of place, of ecology and environmental sustainability, of history, and of purpose as an integral part of the demonstrated design excellence.

In addition to design achievement, projects may be exemplary in the following subcategories:

- Technical Advancement, includes engineering achievements (structural, mechanical, transportation, computer, etc.) as well as innovative use of materials.
- Preservation/Restoration, includes demonstration of exemplary skill, sensitivity and thoroughness in preservation, restoration and/or the alternative or adaptive reuse of existing buildings regardless of their original architectural significance.
