AIA Knowledge Communities

Welcome to the 2016 AIA/TAP Innovation Awards Program

General Information

The American Institute of Architects (AIA) Technology in Architectural Practice (TAP) Knowledge Community seeks exemplary implementations in the state of the art of the design, delivery and management of the built environment as enabled by advanced processes and technologies – to be recognized in the 2016 AIA TAP Innovation Awards Program.

Since 2005, AIA TAP has spearheaded an effort to highlight award winning case studies from the architectural profession and construction industry in the harnessing of Building Information Model (BIM) technology and processes to further design, construction and project excellence.

Rather than abandon the notion of BIM, the AIA TAP Innovation Awards emphasizes how this array of new practices and technologies will further enable project delivery and enhance data-centric methodologies in the management of buildings for their entire lifecycle, from design, to construction and through operations. AIA TAP endeavors to enliven the discourse on how these innovations can advance the profession and practice of architecture and further the mission of the Institute.

Partners

AIA TAP is pleased to collaborate with the Construction Contact Administration KC for 2016, further expanding the reach of innovation in the project delivery and management process..

Recognition

Award recipients will be recognized in AIA publications and electronic media, as well as at the following 2017 National Convention in Orlando.

Following the selection of finalists by the jury, a People's Choice Award will be conducted through AIA social media outlets and the Innovation Awards website. The public will be invited to vote for their favorite project of the recipients, after reviewing the submission PDF's on the Innovation Awards website.

Eligibility

All entries must meet the following requirements:

- Open to everyone.
- Submissions by jury members or by any firm or organization of which they are members or have a substantial interest are not permitted.
- All entries must receive permissions from owners and other team members and acknowledge that permission as part of the submission.

Deadline and Entry Fees

- The deadline for submission completion is August 29, 2016 before 5:00 PM Eastern. All deadlines are strictly observed.

- Below is the list of submission entries. A Member is defined as one belonging to AIA, BIMForum, COAA, or IFMA. All entry fees are non-refundable:
  - Members : $350.00 for each entry
  - Nonmembers: $500.00 for each entry
  - Academic Institutions - $100.00 for each entry

- Please review the Submission Preview carefully before submitting your payment. You can go back and edit your submission until the deadline but no refunds will be issued.

To receive the member discounted price you must log in using an AIA member's account information.

Contact AIA Info Central at 1.800.242.3837 to verify the membership status of the submitter.

CATEGORY DESCRIPTIONS

Category A | Stellar Design
Submissions in this category must exhibit exemplary design and demonstrate innovations in practices and technologies critical in the design process which result in positively impacting project delivery, construction, occupancy and operations. In addition to the General Criteria, submissions may include:

- Advancement in the theory and practice of architecture through the innovative use of technology and/or progressive methods;
- Emphasis of design expertise utilizing advanced technologies and/or progressive methods, but not being determined, dictated, or limited by them;
- Architectural expression that could not have been fully realized without specific technologies or methods;
- Demonstration of new capabilities and achievements incorporating outstanding programming, design, fabrication, construction and/or operation;
- Leveraging advanced/progressive construction and materials technologies to enable high performance operation of the building.

Category B | Project Delivery & Construction Administration Excellence
Submissions in this category must exhibit outstanding examples of innovations in collaboration at any stage of, if not the entire, project delivery - including integrating planning, design, construction contract administration, construction and operations - to fulfill project goals. In addition to the General Criteria, Project Delivery Excellence submissions may include:

- Progressive contractual relationships to advance the project delivery;
- New or alternative forms of collaboration between project stakeholders;
  New, innovative forms of construction contract administration;
- Preservation or enhancement of design intent with lower delivery costs;
- Opportunities for advances in the client's operations and facility management duties due to the resulting project delivery innovations.

Category C | Project Lifecycle Performance
Submissions in this category must exhibit outstanding examples of how innovations in design, project delivery and construction have resulted in measurable positive results in the project's occupancy and operations. In addition to the General Criteria, Project Lifecycle Performance submissions

- Clear definition of performance criteria and baselines, based on the original design/project delivery intent/goals, with documentation of performance results and analysis over time (a minimum of 2 years);

- Performance factors may include:

  a. Reduction in consumption of utilities and resources, such as electricity, water, or other consumables;

  b. On-site electrical generation through solar, wind or other technology/methods;

  c. Advanced waste management (ex: recycling, composting or grey water systems);

  d. Carbon footprint reductions due to sustainable design and operations strategies;

  e. Resiliency to severe climatic conditions, such as flooding, drought or wild fire;

- Demonstrations of the uses of advanced technologies and project delivery data to address operations and ongoing lifecycle management and maintenance.

Category D | Practice-based or Academic Research, Curriculum or Applied Technology Development

Submissions in this category must exhibit outstanding new practice-based or academic research initiatives, curriculum development or applied technology development which incorporate innovative methodologies and technologies addressing design, project delivery, construction and/or operations. In addition to the General Criteria, submissions should include:

- Practice-based or academic initiatives employing progressive practices, innovative processes or advanced technologies, or any combination thereof, to achieve design intent realization, gains in efficiency, productivity or sustainability;

- Development of computing technology - including mobile, cloud or desktop-based platforms - applied to progressive practice methodologies addressing design, project delivery, construction and/or operations, including but not limited to:

  a. The use or leverage of 'big data';

  b. The implementation of data interoperability. Opportunities where open standards were used to achieve data interoperability across multiple technology platforms are HIGHLY encouraged;

  c. Stand-alone applications or plug-ins to existing platforms.

- Development of innovative building technology improving project construction and/or operations;

- Documentation on the impacts of resulting research or curriculum to practice, project delivery, construction and/or operations;

- Entries need not be built. However, the feasibility of the innovations in practice, process and/or technology and their effect on the proposed project must be provided.

Category E | Exemplary use in a Small Firm

Submissions in this category must exhibit exemplary improvements through application of progressive practices, innovative processes and advanced technologies in a firm of 10 or fewer members, at any stage(s) of the overall process of project feasibility assessment, programming, design, documentation, procurement, construction and operation. In addition to the General Awards Criteria, submission should include:

- Documentation explaining how the improvements allow the small firm to practice at a 'higher level', tackling projects of large scale and/or complexity that others may feel are reserved only for larger practices.

General Awards Criteria

Submissions in ALL categories should exhibit:

- Efforts by any individual, any single team within a project, an entire project delivery team, an owner or an organization;

- Effective and extensive collaboration between project stakeholders;

- Recognizable, positive process changes that enhance project objectives;

- Recognizable, positive cultural changes that affect project objectives;

- Clearly-stated and thorough documentation of implementations and resulting benefits from application of innovative technologies and/or progressive methodologies, such as process maps, costs, schedules, quality assessments, asset valuation or facility operations. Data of a sensitive nature (e.g. specific dollar amounts) may be omitted, but some type of reliable metrics should be used to indicate numerical (percentage) benefits;

- Clear depiction of using data interoperability to gain project design and/or delivery benefits. Opportunities where open standards were used to achieve data interoperability across multiple technology platforms are HIGHLY encouraged;

- Enhancement and enabling of resiliency and sustainable design goals.

2016 AIA/TAP Innovation Awards Program

The jury consists of architects, experts and professionals involved in the use of innovative technology for the design and construction of the built environment. The jury has sole discretion in selecting entries that it believes best represent a cross-section of quality projects.

- Any project that credits a 2016 jury member or firm as architect, associate architect, consultant, or client is ineligible and will be disqualified if submitted

- Project authorship on all submissions will remain concealed throughout the deliberations of the jury. If the authorship is revealed on any of the images, plans, or narrative the entry will be disqualified.

- The number of awards and honorable mentions in each category are at the sole discretion of the 2016 AIA/BIM Innovative Awards Jury. In submitting, award winners agree to provide a release for their entries for posting by AIA/TAP (e.g., website) and to participate in AIA/TAP events (e.g., webinars) to share their project experiences and highlights with the industry. Award winners may also be asked to attend an interview (in person or virtually) by the jury.

By entering my name below I acknowledge that there is no conflict of interest between the project being submitted and/or any of the jurors or jurors' firms listed above.

SUBMISSION UPLOAD FOR JURY REVIEW

- It is your responsibility to make sure the architect's name and/or firm name is not revealed on any of the images, plans, or narratives. Failure to follow this requirement will automatically disqualify the entry.

- It is the responsibility of the submitter to check that the files uploaded opens and can be viewed as intended. Entrants may log in and out of the submission site until the deadline.

- All submissions will be required to submit a PDF, maximum of 10MB in size and 25 pages, with the following information included, where applicable to the General and corresponding Category Submission Criteria:

  1. Identification of all significant members by role and responsibilities in the submission;
  2. Drawings (plans, sections, elevations, details) highlighting the unique characteristics;
  3. Process diagrams highlighting innovative concepts and/or execution, including delivery processes and/or data exchanges;
  4. Screenshots clearly illuminating the usage of existing, proposed or new applications;
  5. Supporting documentation from another source (owner, contractor, PM/CM) for claims of cost savings/efficiencies/design optimization;
  6. A 1,500 word maximum narrative comprised of the following:

  o Clear, concise answers to each of the applicable General and specific Category Submission Criteria.

  o What standards were created/employed by the team? How well did these serve the project team and project delivery? Was more needed?

  o Describe any other factors contributing to the success of the project.

General Awards Criteria

Each entry in the AIA/TAP Innovation Awards Program is judged for the success with which the project has met its individual requirements. Entries are weighed individually, not in competition with each other. Submissions in ALL categories should exhibit:

- Efforts by any individual, any single team within a project, an entire project delivery team, or an organization;

- Effective and extensive collaboration between project stakeholders;

- Recognizable, positive process changes that enhance project objectives;

- Recognizable, positive cultural changes that affect project objectives;

- Clearly-stated and thorough documentation of implementations and resulting benefits from application of innovative technologies and/or progressive methodologies, such as process maps, costs, schedules, quality assessments, asset valuation or facility operations. Data of a sensitive nature (e.g. specific dollar amounts) may be omitted, but some type of reliable metrics should be used to indicate numerical (percentage) benefits;

- Clear depiction of using data interoperability to gain project design and/or delivery benefits. Opportunities where open standards were used to achieve data interoperability across multiple technology platforms are HIGHLY encouraged;

Enhancement and enabling of resiliency and sustainable design goals.
