

The American
Institute of Architects
College of Fellows
Investiture Program

AIA College of Fellows

Fellowship is one of the highest honors AIA can bestow upon a member. Founded in 1952, the College of Fellows is composed of those members of the Institute elevated to Fellowship by a jury of their peers. Elevation to Fellowship recognizes the achievement of the architect as an individual and also elevates before the public and the profession those architects who have made significant contributions to architecture and to society.

Congratulations to those members joining the College this afternoon.

WELCOME

Daniel S. Hart, FAIA, President, The American Institute of Architects
